Silver lining on dark clouds

The idiom Every cloud has a silver lining is traced to the renowned English poet John Milton (1608-1674). The expression can be of immense influence in rekindling hopes of better days in the life of individuals facing bad times and of societies struggling to restore past glory. In the case of our country, the value of keeping faith in the famed idiom cannot be overstated, particularly when the citizens are hearing from the top brass in the government that good days are coming while the air is abuzz with dissenting voices from all nooks and corners of the land. Good days, being looked forward to by every citizen across the diverse sections of society, have a price they have to pay, namely to be pro-active, instead of being passive witnesses to the ongoing game of claims to progress and counter-claims to decline indulged by those who are more visible in the public domain. The onus of damage control clearly lies in people's court facing a virtual vacuum of mentors having the charisma of their past counterparts who led by example marked by magnetic charm as it were.

Mysuru of yesteryears has hosted people of eminence who enjoyed unalloyed acceptance in society, leaving the indelible memories as teachers, civil servants, littérateurs and many forms of classical arts. The trend of their dominating presence has snapped through successive generations for reasons not far to seek.

While the basic philosophy of taking the children on a journey of learning, ostensibly for grooming them as citizens with abilities to sustain themselves in a cohesive society, the focus of schools doesn't seem to be in line with that philosophy. In this context, the public perception of schools under government management mirrors them at a very low rating compared to schools managed privately, more as enterprises with an eye on getting attractive returns on funds invested to maintain the schools. Families in urban spaces are party to the poor image of government schools, thus seeing their teachers in dismal light.

As if to invoke the idiom mentioned at the beginning of this column, a highly placed official in the State government has been quoted in the media saying 'Government schools produce students who serve society' and 'Achievers in all sectors have studied in government schools.' Teachers of the schools under State management can take heart from that verdict and make the silver lining dispel the dark clouds.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Every morning at 8 am sharp, I open the doors to a beautiful young lady. She is tall, has an angular face, and her curly black hair always seem to caress the sides of her cheeks. She is Chandrika, my house help. She quietly goes about the chores of my house, with a no-nonsense attitude. I can say she is very professional with respect to her job. My favourite part is when at the end of it all, everyday, religiously, she fills me in with what's happening in her world. I love these small chit-chats; it gives me a glimpse into her life, at a personal level, as another human being, and more importantly as another woman. Over one such cherished moment, she opened her heart to me. She is a single parent, raising a 10-year-old boy, with a dream of sending him to an English-medium school. A few years ago, her husband left her for another woman — her best friend. A little hesitant, I asked her, "Does it hurt, your husband and your best friend together?" But her answer was something unexpected. She said with a smirk on her face, "This is the happiest I have ever been." Such nonchalance. — Mukta K. Gupta in The New Indian Express.

This teen lays Eggs !

Jakarta: Here's something you don't read every day: Akmal, a 14-year-old boy from Gowa, in Indonesia, claims that he has laid 20 eggs in the last two years, with the last two popping out at the hospital, in front of doctors. Akmal has reportedly been hospitalised several times for his bizarre condition over the past couple of years. During his latest trip to the hospital, the boy allegedly laid two eggs in front of the baffled medical staff treating him. Doctors maintain that it is impossible for eggs to form inside the human body. An X-ray revealed a large egg high up the boy's rectum, but his father, Rusli, insists that he would never put them there himself. "In two years he laid 20 eggs. I cracked the first egg and its content was all yellow, no white," Rusli added. "A month later I cracked another one, and its content was all white and no yellow." Muhammad Taslim, a spokesperson for the hospital, said that doctors believe the eggs were deliberately shoved into Akmal's rectum for some bizarre reason, but since they can't prove it, they decided to quarantine the boy for a while, to see if this truly is some sort of medical oddity.

Tattooed with ink made of cat fur

Berlin: A German model has found a way to makes sure her beloved pet cat stays with her forever. Not only did she get a huge tattoo of it on her thigh, but she had it done with a special ink synthesised from its fur.

38-year-old Kathrin Toelle loves her two pet cats like her own children, and knows that she'll miss them more than anything else when they eventually pass away. Kathrin, who goes by the modelling name Makani Terror, sports a large tattoo of her 10-year-old cat Gizmo, made with ink from its luscious fur, and plans on getting one of her other pet soon. "A tattoo artist friend told me about the Skin46 ink and I thought 'I need to do this'," Kathrin said. Skin46 is a Swiss company founded by Andreas Wampl in 2015. It specialises in creating tattoo inks from medically clean organic carbon extracted from either human or animal hair. A batch costs $720, but should be enough for around 30 small tattoos or 10 larger ones.

You shed more than a million skin cells every day. (Who counted?) But your skin cells are constantly replenishing themselves, so you don't run out of skin, which is actually considered an organ — your largest organ. Ever wonder what the dust in your house is composed of? Mostly dead skin cells.

Lack of basic understanding in naming City Streets

Sir,

When I moved into Jayalakshmipuram some 18 years back, I noticed that the Street in front of my house did not have any name. A detailed study of the area showed that there were several anomalies. Before listing these anomalies, let me reiterate what I believe should be a logical method of naming of the City Streets:

1. If East-West Streets are designated as "Main Street" (Mukhya Raste) then North-South Streets would be "Cross Street" (Adda Raste) or vice versa.

2. Under no circumstances a Main Street can be perpendicular to another Main Street and similarly no Cross Street should be perpendicular to another Cross Street.

3. The Street number should increase in the same direction. Also, if there is a short Street, it could be designated with a subscript of 'A'.

4. If a particular street has an established name, retain that name with the logical street number in brackets [example, BSNL (6th Mukhya) Raste, etc.]

Armed with these basic ideas and a detailed map of the locality, I approached the Corporation Commissioner as well as the Ward Corporator but I got a standard reply that there was no budget provision for this activity. After a few attempts, I was told that though the budget was sanctioned there were no bidders for the tender!

More than a decade passed and I tried once again to contact the new Corporator in 2014. After several attempts, her mobile was answered by her husband who told me that his wife was a housewife but he in fact took care of the Corporator's duties!

Anyway, coming back to the issue of naming of the Streets, I did have three meetings with the husband along with the area engineer and both seemed to agree to all my suggestions. Finally in February 2018, the new boards with street names have appeared but sadly with several mistakes.

How can a single straight Street of 500 meters in length have two different names, one on its Western end and another on its Eastern end? The attached photos show the freshly installed name boards on two ends of that Street. Unfortunately both are incorrect and the traditional and logical name should have been "Mahajana High School (2nd Main) Raste". Similar inconsistency can be noticed in another Main Street also. In addition, many short streets have no name boards and several damaged old boards have not been removed adding to the confusion. There are instances of a Cross Street perpendicular to another Cross Street. Could the Corporator and the area engineer kindly look into these anomalies and make the necessary corrections?

Karti Chidambaram to remain in CBI custody till Mar. 6

New Delhi, Mar. 2 - Former Finance Minister P. Chidambaram's son Karti Chidambaram, who was arrested in a corruption case, will be in CBI custody till Mar. 6 and will not get any home-cooked food, though he can keep his gold chains on.

He is expected to be confronted with other suspects in Delhi and other cities as the CBI questions him. Karti Chidambaram's lawyer accused the CBI of tampering with evidence and attempting to prejudice the Court. Investigators say he used the influence of his father Chidambaram, who was then the Union Finance Minister.

Calling the evidence against Karti Chidambaram "explosive," Additional Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said several documents and cellphones seized from him needed to be examined.

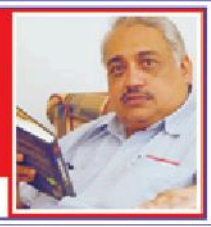
Over a cup of evening Tea



By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

Beware! Bathrooms can kill too!

We have all seen a most shocking and disturbing incident in the very tragic death of Sridevi, a phenomenally versatile, much loved and admired actress. While nothing that has been said about the circumstances in which she met her end seems very convincing, the fact remains that she died very prematurely when her fans were still expecting to see the best of her performances after her emergence from a long, self-imposed exile.

While the not-so-open-and-shut case seems to have been shut forever, without it having languished in foreign law courts, it certainly will languish in people's minds here at home for a very long time to come. But my take here today is not about how Sridevi died but about where she died — the humble bathroom! The bathroom has been a part of most of our households for a few centuries now by virtue of being a most essential and indispensible necessity. In fact, until very recently, it was not a very glamorous place being just a very staid and dull part of our homes. It certainly was not the object of veneration or display meant to gain the attention and admiration of our friends to our opulence as it now is.

Over the recent years, the bathrooms of our rich and famous have become so hi-tech that they can actually be called technological marvels. They are electronic workhorses which can work wonders upon our bodies and minds too, instead of just being private places where we can scrub ourselves clean of all the sweat and grime that gathers upon our work-weary bodies. You may find it hard to believe but today there are bathrooms that can cost more than the houses they are a part of! I will not venture to highlight here what is so good about them but only use this writing space to tell you how very dangerous too most modern bathrooms can be.

Yes, unknown to most of us today the bathroom is a place great danger lurks silently. Across the length and breadth of the world people slip and fall in their bathrooms with alarming regularity and sustain various kinds of injuries and fractures. Any orthopaedic surgeon will be able to tell you that after road accidents, falls in bathrooms are the commonest cause of head injuries and fractures, especially of the hip bone. If we look around us, I am sure every one of us can recall at least one instance of someone in our circle of elderly relatives who has had a hip fracture due to a fall in the bathroom. That is how common falls in bathrooms are.

A hip fracture in an elderly person is a very major medical event which can be fraught with great danger, especially because most elderly people have co-existing ailments like diabetes, high blood pressure, heart problems and bad lungs. These co-morbidities increase the risk of operative mortality many times but the best method of treating almost all these cases is by immediate surgery. If left un-operated these people are condemned to a bed-ridden life which too is not free from much pain, both physical and mental, not only for themselves but also for the family members who have to look after them.

In fact, the medical fraternity across the globe agrees that a fracture of the hip in an elderly person that cannot be operated for some reason is nothing less than a painful death-sentence for the patient. The incidence of falls in bathrooms resulting in head injuries and hip fractures has been growing at an alarming rate over the recent years. This is because of the change in the floorings of our bathrooms with various kinds of fancy tiles now replacing the simple cement floor. There was a time until not very long ago when all bathrooms including the ones in affluent people's homes too had ordinary cement floors finished in a rough grout to prevent people from slipping. In fact most people preferred to have their bathrooms paved with a single large slab of very rough granite in the actual bathing area which was considered the safest arrangement.

Most homes in the remote reaches of the Malnad areas continue to have such bathrooms even to this day. That is why we do not hear about elderly people slipping and falling in bathrooms there although many of them live solitary lives while their younger folk eke out their lives in cities.

The plain truth is that despite tall claims by their manufacturers, no modern bathroom tiles, not even the ones that is considered to be the most 'non-slip' ones can remain so for long with regular use. Today most of us consider it infra-dig to have our bathroom floors finished in an un-fancy way even if it is the safest thing for our life and limb. When that is the case the least that we can do to make our bathrooms safer is to install sturdy grab rails in every one of them right at the time of their construction or even as an after-fitting. This simple safety measure can prevent much morbidity and misery in our lives. When we insist on safety features like seat belts and air bags while buying cars for ourselves, why can we not give the same attention to safety in our homes?

Now, coming to bath-tubs, let me tell you that most of us spend more money on installing them although we hardly spend any time bathing in them! Although a bath-tub is not too unsafe for an able bodied and fully alert person it can be a pretty dangerous place to be in if someone is even slightly infirm or inebriated. A fall into a bath-tub full of water due to a slippery floor that renders a person unconscious can cause death due to drowning if not due to the head injury itself.

It is not uncommon for a slightly intoxicated person who enters a bath-tub to slip into a much deeper state of unconsciousness due to the dilatation of the peripheral blood vessels while immersed in the warm water. This happens because of the diversion of blood to the rest of the body which deprives the brain of oxygen. When a person is in this state of stupor, drowning and death can occur in less than half a minute of submersion of the head under water.

Is this what happened in Dubai? Or is this what we are told happened there as this is the easiest explanation of how death can inevitably come when it chooses to?

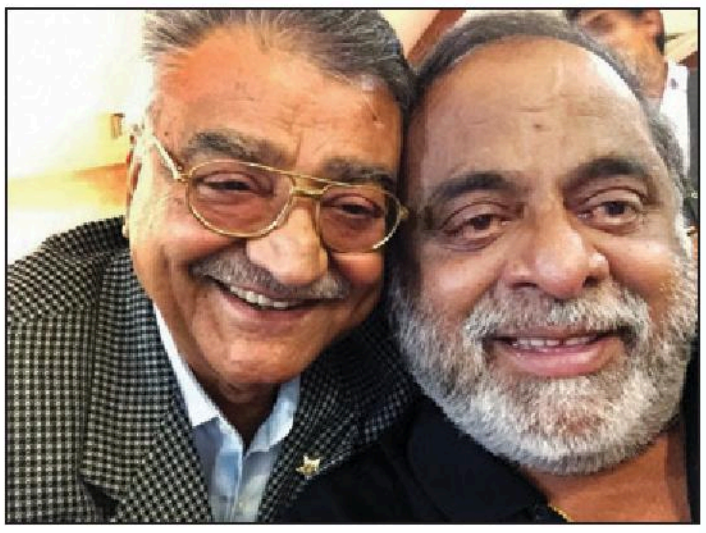
Pep-talk and a Selfie with Ambareesh

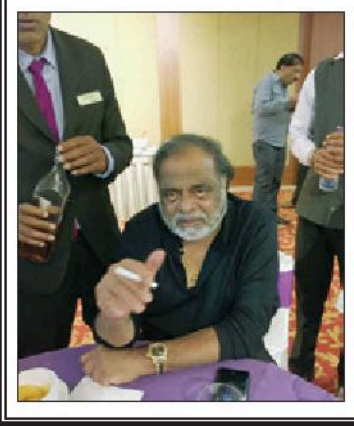


Come March, the members of Mysore Race Club (MRC) realise it is time for the Membership election. This year it is on 19th of this month. The Membership is statutorily restricted to 250, new members are democratically chosen through secret ballot whenever the vacancy arises following the death or resignation of members.

This year there are seven vacancies and 14 contenders. Being an old member of the MRC, I also realise it is time for 14 dinners in the Club itself or in some Star Hotel with best of food and spirit hosted by the proposers of the contesting candidates.

For many members who do not relish horse flesh, not being race-goers for fun or punting, it is merely a prestige to be a member of MRC. Status symbol? I guess, I am one who belongs to this class of membership. However, I have made a large number of good, affable friends in the Club and I use the Club House, a wonderful place overlooking the majestic Chamundi Hill and the greenery all around, for a quiet, evening dinner with family or friends sipping wine or high spirits.

Be that as it may, last Wednesday, there was one such dinner. May I call it horse-dinner? Why not? I may well be coining a new phrase or a word. After all, there are nearly a dozen phrases with the word horse as prefix — horse-laugh, horse-play, horse-power, horse-sense, horse-fly, horse-flesh and with the Assembly elections a couple of months away, how can we forget the phrase horse-trading ! Some MLAs suddenly become manimals you know. And unlike our cricketers who are auctioned, here it is horse-trading. Let it be.



For me it was the first dinner of the season hosted by R. Raja Chandra to seek support for his candidate. For the keen, regular readers of Star of Mysore this name may not be a new one because whenever SOM wrote about Mysore Royal family, which is historically erroneous or otherwise inappropriate, he with his personal connection to the Palace, would react with a loaded letter. I was there to honour his personal invitation and I was happy for it. How would I meet my old friends forgotten after last year's such MRC serial dinners ! A surprise guest was film actor-turned-politician Ambareesh, come all the way from Bengaluru to honour Raja Chandra's invite, like I did.

I was standing near the bar counter chatting with friends at a pedestal round table when I felt someone putting hand around my waist in an embrace. I turn around and whom do I see — Ambareesh. Yeno Ganapathy, Hegiddiya, was his refrain in a hearty, gurgling voice and his typical winning smile, bright wide eyes and face with salt and pepper stubbles.

Soon, a few of his friends joined in, with Kings Kourt Vivek by his side and yours truly sipping the golden liquid even as the actor lit a cigarette getting ready for a 'small one'. Health is important. No ordinary showman he is in Sandalwood, there was a horde of servitors of the hotel to serve him (see the pic I took). Even as I was taking this picture, he said, "Come over, we will have a selfie'. When I said I was no good in taking selfie, he took my cellphone and clicked one. There you are ! (see the pic he took). All this aside, our conversation veered towards Sridevi, the diva who had just passed away. Ambareesh had acted with her in a Kannada film as I guessed from what he was saying. His opinion about Sridevi as an actor — she is not an actor, she is a 'character'.

A 'character'? All eyebrows around Ambareesh went up with eyes wide open. "Yes, if she acts Ganapathy, she becomes Ganapathy. She totally becomes the character she played. Hence a 'character'."

I thought of Parakaya Pravesha, but did not say it, not to break the encomiums Ambareesh was showering on her.

He seemed to wonder at human destiny and recalled how he was taken to Singapore in a critical condition by Air Ambulance and survived, but Sridevi who was keeping a good health suddenly died. Obviously, Ambareesh has become health-conscious, and it is there in his face — the good old infectious smile, the staccato speech, hail-the-fellow-well-met approach while meeting his friends and fans. The cigarette is more for show, he hardly inhaled. And the small one, remained small one in the glass.

Looking at him and talking to him I thought this Kannada film-world's Rebel Star and an iconic figure must get back to films, where he really belongs, like Amitabh Bachchan has done and eschew politics where he seems a misfit. After all, Karnataka is not Tamil Nadu.

Three Cheers!!!

Work on widening Hunsur Road near Jaladarshini Guest House begins

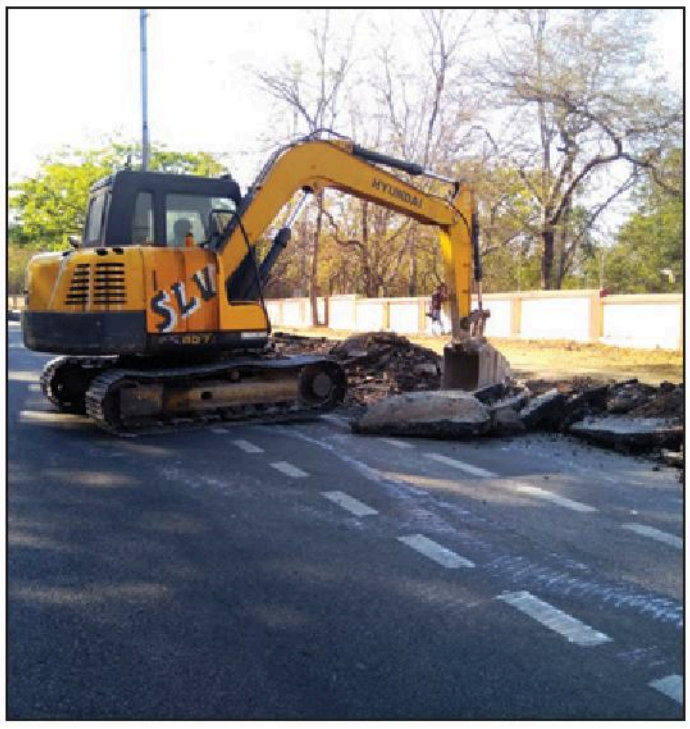
Mysuru, Mar. 2 (YDS& BCT)- The project to widen the stretch of Hunsur Road between Kalamandira and Valmiki Road near Jaladarshini Guest House (where there is a curve) began yesterday evening. As per the new proposal, the stretch of the road from the Kukkarahalli Lake side will be widened to prevent accidents. Earlier, it was proposed to straighten the road by chopping over 100 trees.

The road has now been blocked for traffic from Field Marshal K.M. Cariappa Circle (Metropole Circle) till Valmiki Road Junction where there is a petrol bunk and alternative arrangements have been made. Vehicles coming from Hunsur can proceed via Valmiki Road and vehicles proceeding towards Hunsur can take the road adjacent to Kalamandira. It was earlier proposed to straighten the road to prevent accidents and even the Bhoomi Puja was performed for the Rs. 12 crore project. However, following growing opposition to the project that was bound to destroy the heritage ambience of the section of the road, the plan was altered.

Environmentally-conscious citizens and several Green Groups had opposed the project as it would destroy at least 100 trees. They also argued that the curve in the road was not the cause for accidents and suggested means to preventing accidents without straightening the road. Citizens had even approached the Court against the project.

Speaking, Govindaraju, Assistant Executive Engineer, of National Highway Authority of India, Mysuru said that the 600-metres stretch between Jaladarshini Guest House till the Valmiki Road Junction will be widened giving more room for the motorists to negotiate the turn. "We will carry out the work 24/7 and ensure that the works will be completed by the end of this month," he added.

Why Waste Public Money?



When the authorities knew that the road near Jaladarshini Guest House will be widened, what was the need to asphalt the stretch by wasting public money?" This is the question being asked by people now.

The authorities had asphalted the road from Metropole Circle recently knowing very well that the stretch near the Jaladarshini Guest House will be widened. "They have wasted crores of rupees of public money. This shows there is absolutely no coordination between the Government agencies that carry out development works," a citizen told Star of Mysore.

Asphalting could have been done after the widening the road and thereby the authorities could have saved public money, they added.

A touch of Lalitha Mahal Palace

Mysuru, Mar. 2 (SPN&BCT)- The new District Office Complex (Deputy Commissioner's Office) on the German Press premises has been built on the lines of Lalitha Mahal Palace and the reason behind this is to maintain the heritage character of the city. The building has been constructed on a 15-acre land.

The construction works have been completed by Karnataka Public Works, Ports and Inland Water Transport Department at an estimated cost of around Rs. 70 crore. The project has been implemented by Pune-based Shirke Construction Technologies Limited.

The present Office of the Deputy Commissioner is housed in a 150-year-old heritage building and congested. There is no parking place and except the Deputy Commissioner, all other officials have to park their vehicles outside the Complex. Many District Offices, including Social Welfare and BCM offices, which were functioning at the DC Office Complex, have shifted to private buildings.

Now, only a few offices like the Treasury, the Food and Civil Supplies Department, the Deputy Director of Land Records and the DC's Office are functioning in the heritage building.

The foundation stone for the new Complex was laid at the German Press premises on Aug. 7, 2016. The building has a built area of 22,920 sqmts with a basement of 9,150 sqmts, ground floor of 4,720 sqmts, first floor of 4,500 sqmts and has a second floor of 4,550 sqmts.

The land was sanctioned by the Union Government and Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha was instrumental in sanctioning the 15-acre plot by convincing Union Urban Development Minister (now Vice-President) M. Venkaiah Naidu.

Space for parking vehicles has been earmarked at the basement. Speaking to Star of Mysore, Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep said that in the first stage, 11 offices that are functioning at the present DC office will be shifted. Later, the remaining 28 offices will be shifted.

ROAD WORKS

Along with the construction of the DC Office Complex, road widening works from Mysuru Dairy Circle in Siddarthanagar till Bannur Road Junction have been completed.

Ornamental lamp posts that have been installed on the stretch following international standards have enhanced the aesthetics of the road leading to the imposing Complex.

Works on box culvert pipeline, water pipeline, drainage and minor bridges have also been completed.

Asphalting works of the road between Teresian College and Bannur Ring Road Junction too have been completed.

The authorities concerned said that the total estimate of the road works is Rs. 30 crore. The works have been implemented by Bapuji Constructions.

Jayadeva Multi-speciality Hospital on KRS Road in city being readied for the inauguration.

Mysuru, Mar. 2 (PM&BCT)- The new Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research Hospital and an advanced Trauma Centre have been constructed at PKTB premises. While the hospital has been constructed at a cost of Rs. 210 crore, the Trauma Centre has been built at a cost of Rs.25 crore to provide timely and emergency treatment.

The construction of the hospital began four years ago and it is a four-storied structure with 350 beds. At present, the 110-bedded Jayadeva Hospital is functioning from K.R. Hospital premises but lacked advanced facilities. The new hospital will have all facilities pertaining to heart including open heart surgeries.

The new hospital has four Operation Theatres (OTs), General Ward, Semi Special, Special and Deluxe Wards. Provisions for CT Scan, MRI and other facilities have been made and the staff of Jayadeva Hospital in K.R. Hospital premises, including specialists, would be shifted to the new hospital. Mahatma Gandhi's letter on Jesus Christ up for sale

Washington, Mar. 2 - A letter written by Mahatma Gandhi, in which he discusses the nature of existence of Jesus Christ, is up for sale and could be purchased for 50,000 US dollars. The letter dated April 6, 1926 is written by Mahatma Gandhi from his Sabarmati Ashram in India.

Typed in faint ink and with a bold, unaffected signature, the letter was part of a private collection and is now being sold by the US-based Raab Collection. Mahatma Gandhi wrote the letter to Christian religious elder in the United States, Milton Newberry Frantz.

In the letter, Mahatma Gandhi discusses his hope for peace among religions worldwide. Gandhiji writes:

"Dear Friend, I have your letter. I am afraid it is not possible for me to subscribe to the creed you have sent me. The subscriber is made to believe that the highest manifestation of the unseen reality was Jesus Christ. In spite of all my efforts, I have not been able to feel the truth of that statement."

"I have not been able to move beyond the belief that Jesus was one of the great teachers of mankind. Do you not think that religious unity is to be had not by a mechanical subscription to a common creed but by all respecting the creed of each?" he asked.

"In my opinion, difference in creed there must be so long as there are different brains. But who does it matter if all these are hung upon the common thread of love and mutual esteem?" Gandhiji wrote.

The new building has a built area of 45,000 square feet and each floor has 15,000 square feet. It has lower ground floor, upper ground floor and the first floor. There are nine domes that reflect the heritage character of Mysuru city and the central big dome has a Kalasha on the top.

Kodagu DC bans white water river rafting for a month

Madikeri, Mar. 2- Kodagu Deputy Commissioner has banned river rafting activity and white water rafting across the district for a month. If need be, the ban will be permanent.

In an order issued yesterday, DC P.I. Sreevidya has stated that there were many adventure organisations and home stays running river rafting activities without permission. Recognised organisations have to apply for permission for river rafting from the District Administration.

"They have been given time till one month to apply and all applications will be considered after detailed scrutiny whether they have the mandatory equipment and other safety measures. If none of the organisations and adventure firms apply for permissions, river rafting activity will be permanently banned across the district," the DC's order stated.

The DC has fixed March 27 as the date for the meeting where adventure firms are required to attend a meeting at the DC office at 3 pm to apply for permission under Criminal Procedure Code Column 133.

"Permanent river rafting ban orders will be issued if the applications were found unsatisfactory and criminal action will be taken against those who organise river rafting illegally," the DC stated.

The DC's orders come in the wake of several complaints from the tourists and villagers that adventure activity organisers have no expertise in river rafting and some of them are organising such events just to make money. Mandatory safety measures are not being followed by the organisers and lives are at stake, the tourists complained.

Tourists have also complained that rafting organisers on River Cauvery at Kushalnagar, Dubare and other places including Barapole in South Kodagu fight with the tourists and give rise to law and order problem.

Following complaints, the DC visited some of the places where river rafting activities are being organised and has issued the orders based on her observations.

WORD OF THE DAY

Tenebrous

Pronunciation: TEN-uh-brus (adjective)

Meaning: Shut off from the light; dark, murky.

Origin: Tenebrous means "obscure" or "murky," but there's nothing unclear about its history. Etymologists know that the word derives from the Latin noun tenebrae, which means "darkness." Tenebrous has been used in English since the 15th century, and in the 20th century it was joined by some interesting relations. Tenebrionid is the name of a nocturnal beetle that is usually dark-coloured and is also called a darkling beetle. Tenebrism refers to a style of painting — associated with the Italian painter Caravaggio — in which most of the figures are engulfed in shadow but some are dramatically illuminated by concentrated light.

THE ODD WORD

Ufology

The study of unidentified flying objects.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A Daniel come to judgement

Meaning: Someone who makes a wise judgement about something that has previously proven difficult to resolve.

Origin: This phrase doubtless alludes to the Biblical character Daniel, who was attributed with having fine powers of judgement. In Daniel 5:14 (King James Version) we have: I have even heard of thee, that the spirit of the gods is in thee, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee. The first use of the phrase as we now know it is from Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice, 1596: SHYLOCK: A Daniel come to judgment! yea, a Daniel! O wise young judge, how I do honour thee!
